

Notes on the Declaration of No Objection

To comply with occupational health and safety legislation, we must ensure that products returned to our Customer Service Center are not contaminated with substances hazardous to health or the environment.

A completed declaration of no objection must therefore be enclosed with each return shipment. If a return is received without a declaration of no objection, our Customer Service Center will assume a potential risk and reserve the right to refuse acceptance. If the declaration of no objection is incomplete or incorrectly filled in, there may be a delay in repairing the products, as complete and correct information must first be obtained. Märzhäuser Wetzlar GmbH & Co. KG does not accept any liability for costs arising from such a delay.

The declaration of no objection must be completed by a competent person. This person must know about all substances with which the products have come into contact before completing it.

Products that have been exposed to radioactive substances must also be decontaminated. In this case, proof of decontamination must be provided in addition to this declaration of no objection.

Please note: The processing of your return will be delayed if the declaration of no objection is not attached to the outside of the box. It is therefore essential that you enclose the declaration of no objection in the delivery note pouch attached to the outside of the box.

In addition, please be sure to observe our guidelines for returning products:
